

Jack Threads

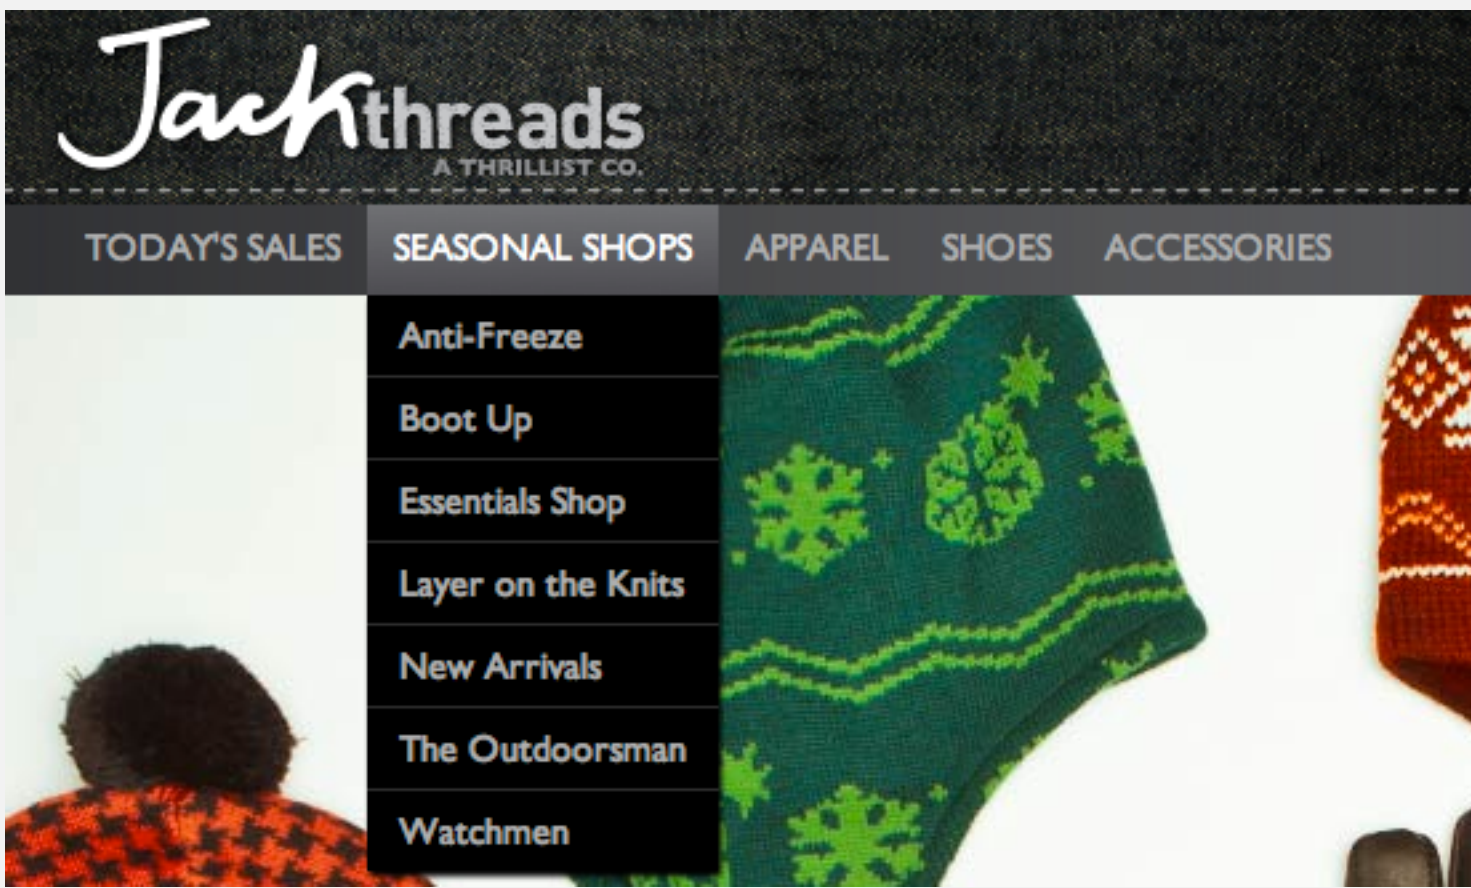

Posted on January 14, 2012 by Shawn Wilkins

You want to wear the nicest clothes, look presentable, and let people know that your sense of fashion is clean and sophisticated. Only problem is that you have no idea where to shop, how much things will cost, or better yet, how well they're made. You could easily go to a store, try on clothes, check prices and head out, but then your fashion sense is limited to what that store has to offer and you're trapped in their pricing models. Jack Threads aims to change that and all for an affordable price.

Jack Threads is an invite-only designer clothing shop for men. Every day they have a new sale that stretches over for a couple of days similar to that way Fab has their sales for various gadgets and accessories. These sales aren't the average 5% off type things you see in your everyday clothing outlets, but rather 50% and sometimes all the way to 80% off clothes. This makes shopping incredibly easy and a bit easier on your wallet.

It doesn't just end at wondrous sales, it goes into what we all need to start taking account for – dressing properly during the seasons. Through our high school days we thought wearing a jacket every day would cut it or that wearing the same hoodie every day was “in style” when it wasn't. Jack Threads cares about how you look and so should you. That's why they have their very own Seasonal Shops which change throughout the year with different apparel that would suit your needs. Coats in the winter, windbreakers in the fall, t-shirts in the spring, it goes on.

Jack Threads doesn't just sell any clothing – they sell nice, well designed, and put together clothing. If you want to take a look for yourself, go ahead and sign up here with my personal invite code and take a look at the many deals you can splurge upon.
